Target audience

Non-Vessel Owning Common Carriers (NVOCC) wanting to build an understanding of NVOCC bill of lading issuances, either to sign up for the International Maritime Bureau (IMB) NVOCC Registry or as part of a staff training programme; NVOCCs currently facing suspension from the IMB NVOCC Registry; and related stakeholders in banks, actual carriers, cargo owners and other general traders as part of staff training and awareness building initiatives.

Course objectives

IMB estimates that over 95% of all improperly issued bills of lading are delivered by NVOCCs. NVOCCs must be held accountable for the documents they issue and understand the benefits of complying with the new IMB Code of Conduct.

To raise industry standards for active NVOCCs operating in the global market, the course covers everything from the basics of trade logistics to recognising the importance of bills of lading in international trade. On this course, you will learn about the documents and processes required to properly issue a bill of lading. Additionally, you will come to understand the critical role bills of lading play in the trading chain; how banks, ship owners and cargo owners rely on them; and what must be done to comply with best practices and regulations.

Course outline

- Module 1 Overview of Bills of Lading
- Module 2 The Role of Bills of Lading in Global Trade
- Module 3 Understanding the IMB Register and Code
- Module 4 Assessment section
